

BRITISH LOSE GREATER PART OF GROUND WRESTED FROM THE GERMANS IN SUNDAY'S ATTACK

Germans Drive Forward in Albert Sector After Fierce Artillery Bombardment; Six Months More Will See Two and Half Million Americans in France.

2,500,000 IN SIX MONTHS.

PARIS, July 3.—(Havas Agency)—In six months there will be 2,500,000 American troops on the French front, Andre Cardieu, head of the general commission for Franco-American war matters, has declared to the editor of the Petit Journal.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Knowledge that more than 1,000,000 United States troops are now in France today promises to add to America's celebration of the Fourth of July tomorrow. President Wilson in making public a letter from Secretary Baker made known the fact that 1,019,119 American troops had left for overseas service, on July 1, a record which in the words of the President "will give additional zest to our national celebration of the Fourth of July."

Despite activity of German submarines troops sailing have increased steadily from 1,718 men in May 1917, when the vanguard of America's contribution to the forces of democracy left the home shores, until last month 276,372 were sent away, the total substantially enough for 20 divisions had reached France, with a total loss at sea because of submarines of only 231 men, a record which army officials declare has never been paralleled in history.

Casualties, to date, including those lost at sea and those which have been returned are placed at 8,165 men by Secretary Baker, leaving more than 1,000,000 men to face the Germans in their threatened "offensive" operation of the war. But of the 1,000,000 men in France according to recent statements by Provost Marshal General Crowder stands another million now in training and according to the same authority still another million will have entered military life by the end of the present month.

GERMANY BLAMES MINE FOR HOSPITAL SHIP SINKING.

AMSTERDAM, July 3.—The sinking of the British hospital ship Llandovery Castle, announced by the British admiralty to have been sent to the bottom by an enemy submarine off the Irish coast on June 27, with the probable loss of more than 200 lives, was due to her striking a British mine in all probability, says a semi-official note from Berlin received here today. FARM LABOR TO HELP IN HARVESTING CROPS IN COUNTY NOW READY Farmers Asked to Make Their Wants Known to the Farm Labor Manager by Telephone or Otherwise.

E. E. Arnold, farm labor manager, has issued the following statement on the harvest labor situation:

"Labor to harvest your crops is at your demand whenever you need it. Through the Committee of Public Safety we have been able to get a number of helpers from many districts in Fayette county.

"At this critical period we must work and save. Now, farmers, to win this war we must have food produced and take care of what already has been produced. We are at your command to give you the help, whenever it is needed. Do not say you could not take care of your crops because the labor was scarce. Labor is scarce, but we have the volunteer laborers that are anxious to help you out and save your crops. These men are willing to sacrifice a few days of their time to help you out.

"The majority of the chairman of the county have help ready to go out now and help. In order to get this help call room 735, First National Bank Building, Uniontown, Bell Phone 224, Tri-State Phone 604. If possible give a few days' notice when you are going to need help. CONNELLVILLE GOES OVER TOP IN W. S. S. DRIVE

Reports of Canvassing Teams Show Quota is Oversubscribed By $58,000.

TOTAL IS NOW $377,221

Citizens of This Community Show a Spirit of Loyalty and Generosity in Their Subscriptions; Result of Three Day Drive is Wonderful.

Connellsville did herself honor again when after all reports on the War Savings Stamp drive had been made, totals showed that the quota for this city had been oversubscribed by more than $58,000. With a goal of $321,000 canvassing teams composed of business men in three days' work raised the magnificent sum of $377,221.25. In a drive last Thursday and Friday a total of $294,964 was raised and in order to go over the top the campaign was continued yesterday, with the result that Connellsville shines forth as the premier city in the county when it comes to a display of patriotism and generosity.

The canvassers report they had no difficulty in securing pledges for the "baby bonds" and the campaign committee feels that if the canvassers had had a full week to work in the loan in War Savings Stamps here would have surpassed the total of the Third Liberty loan.

C. W. Downs' team took off honors last night with a total of $43,573 in pledges. His team also reported the largest number of individual subscriptions, securing 563. W. R. Kenney's team ran second in the amount of money secured, having a total of $36,373, and H. O. Keagy's team took second place in the number of subscriptions, reporting 454. The teams of A. O. Bixler and George Campbell reported 418 and 403 subscriptions respectively.

C. B. Franks reported a total of $6,000 pledged by persons living at Leisenring No. 1. The postoffice has sold through to the amount of $90,000 and through a campaign conducted by the Knights of Maccabees lodge, $2,264.50 was raised. The Maccabees had a total of 64 subscriptions. The total number of pledges reported was 4,554.

William Mier, a canvasser on W. R. Kenney's team, reported that in Bulklin township, 84 subscriptions were secured and $5,060 pledged. The team captains reported that in canvassing the coke region the following amounts were reported in their totals: Trotter, $1,115; Junata, $3,000; Leisenring No. 1, $6,000; Leisenring No. 2, $3,000; Adelaide, $3,000; Davidson, $3,500.

A report sent in from Mill Run this morning showed that 53 subscriptions had been secured at that place with a total of $2,245.

At the meeting the War Chest plan was discussed and this afternoon E. T. Norton and P. E. Markell are in Uniontown representing Connellsville at a meeting of the nominating committees which is arranging plans for the appointing of officers who will have charge of the War Chest drive if the project goes through.

At a picnic to be held at Homing's Mills tomorrow, which between 2,000 and 3,000 persons are expected to attend, William Mier will sell War Savings Stamps.

SPELKER FILES ANSWER

Mount Pleasant Hotelman Explains Hiring Woman Bartender.

August Spelker, alleged to have employed a barmaid in his hotel at Mount Pleasant, filed his answer with the clerk of the Greensburg courts yesterday to the charge made that he violated the Brooks law. Mr. Spelker stated that he did employ Mrs. Rose Schachte, wife of John Schachte, a bartender of experience, because of the disability of John Schachte, who suffered from paralysis of the left side. He stated that John Schachte was assisted at the bar by his wife, a portion of Monday, June 18, Tuesday, June 19, and Wednesday, June 20.

The Spelker case has attracted considerable attention in this part of the state, as it is the first time in the history of hotel keeping in Westmoreland county where a woman has been employed in the capacity of selling drink.

E. church, an unincorporated society, a petition was filed in court Tuesday for the permission to sell a lot owned in that town 40x130 feet to the Vanderbilt Coal & Coke company for the sum of $1,800. WESTERN MARYLAND YARDS, ROUNDHOUSE AT FAYETTE TO BE COMPLETED IN 60 DAYS

Chairman Mrs. J. M. Grey Makes Appeal for Hospital Bags for Soldiers' Trinkets.

Mrs. J. Melvin Grey, chairman of the Charleston Comforts Branch of the Navy League, has set Monday, July 15th as the date for the next shipment of knitted articles to the Navy League headquarters. This date marks the closing of the first year of the organization of the branch and Mrs. Grey would like to have all knitters finish their work and hand it in for the shipment.

In ten months the Navy League knitters of Connellsville and surrounding towns, have turned in 1,026 complete sets and the branch is very anxious to make a splendid showing in the next shipment.

An appeal has been sent out from headquarters for hospital bags, thousands of which are wanted. The bags should be 12x14 when finished, and may be made of any washable material. Flowered chintzes and cretonnes are preferred by the men as being gay and cheerful. A white linen label should be attached two inches from the bottom and sewed all around on one side of the bag only. A casing should be run one inch from the top and two tapes with separate outlets on each side of the bag run through this casing.

When the men are brought to the hospital they have quantities of little treasures in their pockets picked up on the battlefield, letters from home, photographs, etc. The clothing has to be taken away to be cleaned and repaired. The contents of a man's pockets are therefore put in these little bags on which his name and the number of his regiment is put on. It is a great satisfaction to the convalescent soldier to have these little bags hanging at his bed-head, where he can touch it and take out the contents during the long hours of his convalescence. It is also a great relief for the hospital authorities to feel that these small belongings are kept together and not a care and responsibility to them.

The yard system at Fayette is about half complete. The plans called for initial installation of six tracks—land purchased from the Hard estate. Three tracks have been completed and the grading is done for the others. Nothing has been done toward the erection of a roundhouse.

To provide for traffic over the West Penn railways line the administration will have erected a temporary wooden trestle crossing the Baltimore & Ohio and Western Maryland lines. The plans provided for a new steel viaduct extending from the edge of the bluff at Morrell over all the railroad tracks in the valley. Scarcity of steel was responsible largely for the delay in the construction of this work. At this time it would be impossible to assemble the materials for a permanent structure in the time allotted for completion of the work, hence the temporary wooden structure.

WESLEY KING TWICE ABSENT FROM POST, CONTENTS LINDLEY

Two Reasons for New Trial in Turkey Murder Case Filed Today by Counsel for Prisoner.

Counsel for Frank M. Lindley who was convicted of the murder of Frank A. Burke in the latter's office in the Second National bank building, Connellsville, last December 13, today filed in court in Uniontown two reasons why a new trial should be granted the defendant.

The defendant, the first reason sets forth, will be able to prove that Wesley King, night elevator operator in the bank building and the star witness for the commonwealth, was absent from the building at least twice during the night of Dec. 13 between 11 and 1 o'clock, as set forth in affidavits of Arthur G. Richter and W. E. Shaw. In the second reason it sets forth that Martin O'Hara, proprietor of the Baltimore House where Lindley secured a room for the night, had retired and closed the hotel not later than 12:30 o'clock, the statement being substantiated by an affidavit by Mrs. O'Hara.

The affidavits of Richter and Shaw set forth that King came to W. C. Bishop's restaurant, where they were employed respectively as cook and cashier, and ordered a half dozen chicken sandwiches between 11 and 12 o'clock and later returned for them. Richter sets forth that he saw and heard King talking over the counter to Miss Ada Conway, waitress.

The affidavit of Mrs. O'Hara is to establish that Lindley was in his room at the hotel before the hour fixed by King as having seen him leave the bank building.

King Wins Contest. O. J. King, Republican, was today declared the winner over Asa L. Martin, Democrat, in the tax collectorship contest in North Union township. Judge E. D. Copeyard of Westmoreland county, before whom the case was heard, decided King received 457 votes and Martin 447.

Your Telephone Directory

TELEPHONE service is dependent upon your use of the telephone directory; it is the "guide," as the receiver is the "latch" and the transmitter the "door," to usher you through to the one you wish to talk to.

Bell telephone directories are issued several times a year in order that patrons may have an up-to-date list of telephone numbers and may know of the changes in telephone numbers of those whom they may call. In the "General Information" pages of each directory is a paragraph "Telephone Directories" and the dates of publication are there shown. A subscriber should compare the date on his directory with the calendar date, allowing about a month for the printing and delivery of an issue, and if he finds that he is not using the current book, should call the Business Office.

The Telephone Company wishes every subscriber to have, and to use, the most recent copy of the directory. Calling numbers from an obsolete directory may result in "changed number" calls, wastes in time and effort and the use of equipment and service at a time when all these things are in greatest demand.

"THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY."—Edward Everett Hale's famous story is being shown today and will also be the attraction on the bill. It is the sensation of the hour being the most timely of all feature productions in the tremendous season of patriotism it carries. It drives home the greatest lesson in the most beautiful screen story you have witnessed in years. Aside from the wonderful story, read by every real American, it brings forth a screen play of marvelous realism. "The Man Without a Country" has been translated into many foreign languages. It is simple in its beauty and beautiful in its simplicity. John Alton, a conscientious patriot, enters this career, "Dance the United States—I wish I may never hear of the United States," at a time when he is regarded by the scorn of his patriotic friends and despised by the loss of his sweetheart, Barbara Norton, who considers him a deserter. He is ordered to read Everett Hale's story, "The Man Without a Country," and the incident seems to him like a replica of his own life in a previous existence. As Lieutenant Philip Nolan, U. S. A., he sees himself on trial for the identical crime against the United States, uttered by himself; then condemned to pass the rest of his life as an unrepentant prisoner on board a warship without ever hearing of the country to which he belonged; and eventually dying in his cabin with a luncheon for the flag of the United States. The visualization of the story quickens in John Alton the dormant sense of responsibility to his country, and he becomes a recruit at Fort Snoman. Meanwhile Barbara has been a Red Cross nurse in France. Aside from the stirring, patriotic spirit the picture offers seven reels of Florence LaBadie in splendid roles of Barbara. Current events are also being shown.

Come in and see the latest improvements in tires, more miles per dollar than ever.

If you want tire mileage at the lowest possible cost let us replace each of your tires, as they give out, with a Firestone Cord Tire. We expected a lot from this tire, but it is doing even better than we expected. The extra price is more than offset by extra tire mileage alone, besides the gasoline they save, the added comfort and greater car protection.

Firestone has set a higher standard than ever in fabric tires, too. In developing their cord tire they found ways to improve the fabric line. More rubber between fabric layers, deeper cushion under tread, reinforced bead and other things.

Come in and see the construction. You will then know why we are confident in offering you, in Cord or Fabric Tires—

CLARE CASSEL RETURNS TO RANKS OF AMATEUR TENNIS

This is the most recent photograph of Miss Clare Cassel, whose return to the ranks of amateur tennis has brought joy to the great host of followers of the game. Before she left competition Miss Cassel ranked among the first ten women experts on the courts. She was forced to forego playing in 1916 because she had given professional skating instruction, which debarred her from amateur tennis competition. She has refrained from professional sport activity for more than a year and as a result is now restored to her amateur status.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL FROM A PICTURE

When the home clothier has a surplus of unseasonable and out-of-date merchandise in stock he wisely tells his patrons and gives them the advantage in reduced prices. The out-of-town catalogue house on the other hand paints clever pictures as bait and the victims bite freely. The outcome is inevitable. Shop-worn out-of-style and unserviceable goods are received, there is no salvation and the wearer is subject to the ridicule of his friends. Ten and often twenty years elapse before such goods get from the maker to the wearer and the wearer is the real victim. The home clothier keeps in style to please his patrons and the catalogue dealers take the surplus and work it off upon their easy victims.

WHERE TO START REVISION OF A CONDUIT ORDINANCE.

The Central District Telephone company will do well not to mistake the meaning of the willingness on part of the city council to further consider a conduit ordinance. The city has no concessions to make, but as we understand the attitude of the members of the municipal body, the telephone company needs to make many and very important concessions in order to obtain a substitute ordinance to any consideration whatever. If the company cannot enter into a conference prepared to meet fully and willingly all the objections that have been raised to the ordinance now before council, and concede to the city all the rights, privileges and immunities the grant of a fair and equitable franchise the present and future interests of the city demand, we believe time will be wasted in an attempt to negotiate any other kind of a contract.

First of all the company must subscribe to the proposition that a franchise for the use of the streets of the city is a continuing contract between the utility and the people. Instead of an out-of-hand grant from their representatives, and for which reasonable compensation shall be given. The franchise must not be indefinite, but for a specified period. It must not confer any right that a competitor would not be permitted to enjoy under like conditions. The grant should be conditioned upon the location and manner and form of construction of a conduit being such as will permit other conduits being laid as a part of a general plan to eventually place all such wires underground. Definite provision should be made for the removal of all overhead lines of the company in all sections of the city. Instead of indefinite provisions as to certain sections as is one of the objectionable features of the ordinance in its present form.

Acceptance, on behalf of the company of these fundamental provisions will, we believe, find council ready to give serious consideration to the proposition and make the working out of minor questions a comparatively easy matter. At the same time it will indicate where and how a revision of the ordinance should be commenced.

THE COLOR NO DIFFERENCE.

The participation of the American soldiers in the war has already demonstrated that no single race, or the descendants of no single race, going to make up our fighting forces will have a monopoly above all others for bravery or daring in action. The spirit of Americanism influences every man of the army whether the members be native-born whites, the sons of foreign-born parents, Indians or negroes. Highly appreciating the blessings of liberty under our free government they have become so molded in thought, habits, ambitions and purposes in the war that they have forgotten their differences as individuals. As one man they are willing and eager to meet the tests by which their devotion to country are to be measured. In meeting that test events has thus far proven, and will continue to prove, that they are all Americans without distinction as to race, color or antecedents.

Of the men who have thus far been in action against the Germans almost every race represented in our population has furnished one or more members who have been cited for gallantry in presence of the enemy. Among the soldiers thus engaged the only commands made up of men of a single race were several colored units. None, as upon other occasions in the history of our army, these men gave proof of their fighting quality. They were their conduct that General Pershing made special mention of in his report. "The exploits of two colored infantrymen," said General Pershing, "in repelling a much larger German patrol, killing and wounding several Germans and winning Croix de Guerre by their gallantry, has aroused a fine spirit of emulation throughout the colored troops, all of whom are looking forward to more active service. Only regret expressed by colored troops is that they are not given more dangerous work to do. They are especially amused at the most dangerous positions and all are desirous of having more active service than has been permitted them thus far. I can not commend too highly the spirit shown among the colored combat troops, who exhibit fine capacity for quick training and eagerness for the most dangerous work." The color of the skin makes no difference to Uncle Sam. All the wearers of his khaki look alike to him and they are going to prove that they can fight alike, no matter who they are or whence they came.

WOULD MAKE ANY FATHER FEEL "BULLY."

Colonel Roosevelt was denied the privilege of going after the Hun in person, but having sent four of his sons, he has been able to overcome some of his disappointment, especially since reports have been coming to Oyster Bay of what the youngsters are doing. None have been more effective in causing a recurrence of that "bully" feeling the Colonel experiences at certain times and under certain circumstances than the communique in which General Pershing commends a long list of officers and men for conspicuous conduct in the line of duty. When the Colonel's eye scanned this list his heart must have swelled with pride, and an explosive "That's bully" must have been expressed as he read:

"MAJOR THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR.: For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations connected with the capture and defense of Cantigny. During an enemy raid displayed high qualities of courage and leadership in going forward to supervise in person the action of one of the companies of his battalion which had been attacked. On the day of our attack upon Cantigny, although gassed in the lungs and gassed in the eyes to blindness, Major Roosevelt refused to be evacuated, and retained the command of his battalion throughout the engagement." This would make almost any real live American father feel "bully," even if he did not employ the Colonel's method of expressing his feelings.

With over 1,000,000 Yankees in France the eagle will be heard very plainly tomorrow, but just wait until next year when the boys stage that celebration in Berlin! The Kaiser will need ear muffs and a sound proof booth to prevent permanent injury to his hearing.

The Bell company will have to get a clearer wire before it can make its conduit message plain to the city council.

It is too near Thanksgiving for Turkey to get "sassy" with Uncle Sam.

The Fuel Administration might help along the situation by briquetting some of the red tape now used in its system of fuel distribution.

Wouldn't "Washington Avenue" serve splendidly as a drill ground for Mayor Duggan's "work or fight" exercises?

What would some of the government regulating agencies do if they did not have the blizzards of last winter to blame things on?

The best reasons for the delay in the next German drive are found in the activities of the Americans who don't give the Boches time, day or night, to get ready to do anything but start on that long drive from which no Hun ever returns.

BUSY ANIMALS.

The hens are laying luscious fruit, and cackling in their pride; they seem to know that from the Dork they'll help take the bite. My Turkey hens, in other days, were rather stern and sour; but now whenever a chicken lays, she cackles by the hour. My old red cow, as she sits still, she knows our milk is thick, she's turning out the milk would drive a man to drink. She stands around and crows!

War Work for All

Those Who Cannot Fight Can Help Save the Crops

By Clarence DuBois, Department of Agriculture.

War requires of every patriotic person the doing of at least two or three things—fight, work, give. Many men are doing all three. Everyone can, at least, work and give. One must work, in order to have money to give. One must work, in order to produce supplies for the fighting men. NOX to work is not to be patriotic. There is some sort of work, of real constructive value in war winning which can be performed by every able-bodied man. Perhaps it is to continue hammer and tongs at his present job. Perhaps it is to undertake temporarily some special form of war service. But at any event, whatever the work may be, one thing is certain he must work! That conclusion was reached by most people early in the war. Public sentiment has increasingly dwelt upon it. It has grown and developed. It is now a very fashionable thing not to work. A number of States have adopted compulsory work statutes as a result of the war, and in many other States the pre-existing vagrancy laws are being rigidly enforced. In towns and countries all over the nation local public sentiment has demanded that peace officers require every idler to go to work or go to jail. Most communities have been exceedingly earnest in this campaign; rich or poor, men who are not fighting are expected to go to work. In addition to this widespread wave of public sentiment the specific military program requires men register-

AMERICAN ARMY REPRESENTATIVES WELCOMED IN ITALY

When American army representatives landed at Milan, Italy, there was much excitement. The streets through which the procession passed were thronged with people in all walks of life, each trying to catch the other in seeing how loud he could cheer for the Americans. The photograph shows a contingent of American officers and Red Cross nurses passing through a street in Milan.

her cud, until the milking's done, and seems to say, "This morning feed will help to can the Hun." It may be I imagine it, but Dobbin seems to know; he pulls up harder on the bit, he's always keen to go. I hitch him to my one-hoss plow, and as he does his trick, muttering he says, "I'm striving now to queer the Prussian hick." This Dobbin horse was wont to balk before we drew the sword, and I would, peit him with a rock and hurt him with a board. It may be I imagine things, but let us hope I'm right; we'll surely spoil the kraut-fod kings, if all the dumb brutes fight.

FOURTH OF JULY.

The old bell rang, that glorious day, When Freedom as a babe was born. Yet none there was of that splendid morn. The morning of that splendid morn. Men knew the shackles forged of old. Were thick with rust and time's decay. A child had come from parents free. Born in the days of stress and strife. According to the will divine.

JULY SPECIALS

There is a lot of special hot weather raiment in our stores for the July demand. Don't wait until the last day, buy now what you need and benefit by the savings offered. The prices may not be possible again for a long time. Men's clothing, boys' clothing, women's, misses', and children's clothing, of every description; cool, hot weather, July specials. Many of them are a class of goods that we will not be able to dupli- cate on, perhaps we will not be able to get them again for years. Mills that manufactured these goods are out of business—the Government is using them for making clothing, blankets, un- derwear, etc., for the soldiers; prices are advanc- ing. Many of these lines today would cost more wholesale than our retail prices; therefore, if you are in need of anything in the way of rai- ment for men and boys, if you are in need of any summer dresses for women, misses, and chil- dren, or goods to make summer dresses, skirts, or shirt waists, buy now, buy while you can get the goods. You can get rationally what you want now; later you will be obliged to take what you can get.

"Mon Vieux, Prends du Fer Nuxate" "Take Nuxated Iron Old Pal"

This is what you hear "Over There,"
Even in France they say
"Take Nuxated Iron Old Pal"

As a tonic, strength and blood builder Nuxated Iron has never met with such phenomenal success as has Nuxated Iron. It is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone. It has been highly endorsed and used by such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw former Presidential Cabinet Official, Secretary of the Treasury, United States Judge Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington, Justice Sutherland, Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation, formerly Chief Justice of the International Court, Samuel, former United States Senator and Vice Presidential Nominee Charles A.
Tamm of Minnesota, former U. S. Senator and Richard Roland Kenney of Delaware at present Assistant Judge Advocate General U. S. Army, General John L. Dingell (Retired), the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was Sergeant in the U. S. Army when only twelve years of age, General David Stuart Gordon (Retired), hero of the battle of Gettysburg, physicians who have been connected with well-known hospitals have prescribed and recommended it. Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kern, of Chicago, says it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician.
Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago and former House Surgeon of Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says Nuxated Iron has proven through his own tests of it to excel any preparation he has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.),
New York, and the Westchester County Hospital says there are thousands of men and women who need a strength and blood builder but do not know what to take. In his opinion there is nothing better than organic iron.
Nuxated Iron corrects the blood and helps to increase the strength and endurance of men and women who burn up too rapidly their nervous energy in the strenuous strains of the great business competition of the day.

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Nuxated Iron, a French tonic which was used by former members of the United States House and Senate of Representatives, and other prominent people with celebrated results, and which is guaranteed and recommended by physicians, is well known to strengthen everywhere. Unlike other tonics, Nuxated Iron gives you strength and energy, and it builds up the blood and creates red blood, and it builds up the nerves, and it builds up the muscles, and it builds up the endurance, and it builds up the strength, and it builds up the energy, and it builds up the power, and it builds up the vitality, and it builds up the life, and it builds up the health, and it builds up the happiness, and it builds up the prosperity, and it builds up the success, and it builds up the glory, and it builds up the fame, and it builds up the honor, and it builds up the respect, and it builds up the

GUNNER DEPEW

Albert N. Depew

EX-GUNNER AND CHIEF PETTY OFFICER U.S. NAVY
MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE
CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD
WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

CHAPTER IX.

One night, after I had been at the machine for about three weeks, we made a change in the crew of a very heavy gun. Our captain, always standing at the turret when we were going over, and made the sign of the cross and shouted, "For God and France." Then we would and over. Our officers always led us, but I have never seen a German officer lead a charge. They always were behind their men, driving instead of leading. I do not believe they are as brave as they are said to be.

Well, we went over this time, and the machine gun was certainly going strong. We were pretty sure about the captain and the Swiss and all that, and we put up an awful fight, but we could not make it and had to come back. Only one company reached the machine gun, and not a man of it came back who had not been wounded on the way, and did not reach the machine gun. They were all wounded. The captain was missing, too. We thought he was done for, but about two o'clock in the morning, he came back. He simply fell over into the trench all in. He had been wounded three times and had lain in a shell crater, and water for several hours. He would not get back for treatment then, and when daylight came, it was too late, because we were practically cut off by artillery fire behind the front line trench.

When daylight came, the artillery was opened up right on us, and the Germans had advanced their lines into some trenches formerly held by us, and thirty-five yards away. We received bombs and shells right in our faces. A tank in our company got crazy, and ran back over the parapet. He ran a few yards, then stopped and looked back at us. I think he was looking at his senses, and would have started back to us. Then the spot where he had been was empty, and a second later his body from the chest down fell not three yards from the parapet. I do not know where the top part went. That same shell cut a groove in the low hilltop before it exploded. He had been hit by a big shell, and absolutely cut in two. I have seen this happen to four men, but this was the only one in France.

About seven o'clock, we received reinforcements, and poured fresh troops over and retook the trench. No sooner had we entered it, however, than the Germans turned their artillery on us, not even waiting for their own troops to retire safely. They killed numbers of their own men in this way. But the fire was so heavy that when they counter-attacked, we had to retire again, and this time they kept after us and drove us beyond the trench we had originally occupied.

We left them there, with our artillery taking care of them, and our machine guns trying to confuse them, and moved to the right. There was a bunch of trees there, about like a small woods, and as we passed the Germans concealed in it opened fire on us, and we retired to some reserve trenches. We were pretty much scattered by this time, and badly cut up. We reformed there, and were joined by other of our troops, in small groups—what was left of squads and platoons and squads. Our captain had got it a fifth time, meanwhile, but he would not leave us, as he was the ranking officer. He had a sharp wound, but the others were in his arms and shoulders. He could not move his hands at all.

But he led our charge when we ran for the woods. We carried some machine guns with us as we went, and the Germans opened up for them, and ran on again. Some troops came out of a trench still further to the right and helped us, and we drove the Germans out of the woods and occupied it ourselves.

From there, we had the Germans in our old trench almost directly from the rear, and we simply cleaned them out. I think all the boys were kept that day, or else the men who made them did that.

I was shot through the thigh some time or other after the captain got back. It did not hurt like a needle-prick at first, and then for a while my leg was numb. A couple of hours after we took our trench back, I started out for the rear and hospital. The wound had been hurting for some time. They carried the captain out on a stretcher about the same time, but he died on the way from loss of blood. Fresh troops came up to relieve us, but our men refused to go, and though officially they were not there in the trench, they stayed until they took the captain away. Then, back to billets—not bullets, this time. I believe that we received an army citation for that piece of work, but I do not know, as I was in the hospital for a short time afterward. I do not remember much about going to the hospital except that the ambulance had an awful racket going over the stone-paved streets of Etaples, and that the bearer who picked up one end of my stretcher, had eyes like dead fish floating on water; also, that there were some civvies standing around the entrance as we were being carried in.

The first thing they do in the hospital is to take off your old dirty bandages and slide your stretcher under a big electric magnet. A doctor comes in, and places his hand over your wound, and they let down the magnet over his hand and turn on the juice. If the shell fragment or bullet in you is more than seven centimeters deep, you cannot feel the pain. The first doctor reports to the chief how deep your wound is, and where it is situated, and then a nurse comes up to you, where you lie, with your clothes still on, and asks you to take the "pressure."

Then they lift you on a four-wheeled cart, and roll you to the operating theater. They take off your clothes there. I remember I liked to look at the nurses and surgeons; they looked so good in their clean white clothes. Then they stick hollow needles into you, which hurt a good deal, and you take the pressure. After a while, they begin cutting away the bruised and maybe rotten flesh, removing the old cloth, pieces of dirt and so forth, and scraping away the splinters of bone.

You think for sure you are going to bleed to death. The blood rushes through you like lightning, and if you get a sight of yourself, you can feel yourself turning pale. Then they hurry you to your bed, and cover you over with blankets and hot-water bottles. They raise your bed on chairs, so the blood will run up toward your head, and after a while, your eyes open and the doctor says, "Out, out, out, viva," meaning that you still had some time to spend before finally going west.

The treatment we got in the hospital was great. We received cigarettes, tobacco, matches, magazines, and clean clothes. The men do not talk about their wounds much, and everybody tries to be happy and show it. The food was fine, and there was lots of it. I do not think there were any doctors in the world better than ours, and they were always trying to make things easy for us. They did not rip the dressings off your wounds like some of the butchers do in some of our dispensaries that I know of, but took them off carefully. Everything was very clean and sanitary, and some of the hospitals had sun parlors, which were well used, you can be sure.

Some of the men made toys and fancy articles, such as button hooks and paper knives. They made the handles from empty shell cases, or sharpened, or pieces of Zeppelin, or anything else picked up along the front.

When they are getting well, the men learn barrow making, mechanical drawing, telegraphy, gardening, poultry raising, typewriting, bookkeeping, and the men teach the nurses how to make cakes out of shell cases, and gloves out of blankets.

The nurses certainly work hard. They always have more to do than they ought to, but they never complain, and are always cheerful and ready to play games when they have the time, or read to some point. And their work is pretty dirty too. I would not like to have to do it. They say there were lots of French society ladies working as nurses, but you never heard much about society, or any talk about Lord Helston, or Countess Wholes, or pink tea, or anything like that from these nurses.

A few shells landed near our hospital, while I was there, but no patient was hit. They knocked a shrine of Our Lady to splinters, though, and bowled over a big crucifix. The kitchen was near by, and it was just the chef's luck that he had walked over to our ward to see a pal of his, when a shell landed plumb in the center of the kitchen, and all you could see all over the barracks was stew.

That was a regular catfish day for us, until they rigged up bodies and got some more dishes and mixed up some cornmeal for us. The chef made up for it the next day, though. The chef was a great little guy. He was a "blessé" himself, and I guess his stomach sympathized with ours.

There was a Frenchman in the bed next to me who had the whole side of his face torn off. He told me he had been next to a bomber, who had just lit a fuse and did not think it was burning fast enough, so he blew on it. It burned fast enough after that, and there he was.

There was a Belgian in one of the other wards, whom I got to know pretty well, and he would often come over and visit me. He asked many questions about Dimde, for he had had relatives there, though he had lost track of them. He often tried to describe the house they had lived in, so that I might tell him whether it was still standing or not, but I could not remember the place he spoke of. During our talks, he told me about many atrocities. Some of the things he told me I had heard before, and some of them I heard of afterward. Here are some things that he either saw or heard of from victims.

He said that when the Germans entered the town of St. Quentin, they started firing into the windows as they passed along. First, after they had occupied the town, they bayoneted every workman they could find. Then they took about half of the children that they could find, and killed them with their tank butts. After this, they marched the remainder of the children and the women to the square, where they had lined up a row of male citizens against a wall. The women and children were told that if they moved, they would all be shot. Another file of men was brought up, and made to kneel in front of the other men against the wall.

The women and children began to beg for the lives of the men, and many of them were knocked in the head with gun butts before they stopped.

Then the Germans fired at the double rank of men. After three volleys, there were eighty-four dead and twenty wounded. Most of the wounded they then killed with axes, but somehow, three or four escaped by hiding under the bodies of others and playing dead, though the officers walked up and down firing their revolvers into the piles of bodies.

The next day the Germans went through the wine cellars, and shot all the inhabitants they found hiding there. A lot of people, who had taken refuge in a factory over night, decided to come out with a white flag. They were allowed to think that the white flag would be respected, but no sooner were they all out than they were seized and the women publicly violated in the square, after which the men were shot. A paralytic was shot as he sat in his arm-chair, and a boy of fourteen was taken by the leg and pulled apart.

At one place, a man was tied by the arms to the ceiling of his room and set afire. His trunk was completely carbonized, but his head and arms were unburned. At the same place, the body of a fifteen-year-old boy was found, pierced by more than twenty bayonet thrusts. Other dead were found with their hands still in the air, leaning up against walls.

At another place the Germans shelled the town for a day, and then entered and sacked it. The women and children were turned loose, without being allowed to take anything with them, and forced to leave the town. Nearly five hundred men were deported to Germany. Three, who were almost exhausted by hunger, tried to escape. They were bayoneted and clubbed to death. Twelve men, who had taken refuge in a farm, were tied together and shot in a mass. Another group of six were tied together and shot, after the Germans had put out their eyes and tortured them with bayonets. Three others were brought before their wives and children, and murdered.

The Belgian told me he was at Namur when the Germans began shelling it. The bombardment lasted the whole of August 21 and 22, 1914. They entered their fire on the prison, the hospital, and the railway station. They entered the town at four o'clock in the afternoon of August 23. During the first twenty-four hours, they behaved themselves, but on the 24th they began firing at anyone they pleased, and set fire to different houses on five of the principal squares.

Then they ordered every one to leave his house, and those who did not were shot. The others, about four hundred in all, were drawn up in front of the church, close to the river bank. The Belgian said he could never forget how they all looked.

"I can remember just how it was," he said. "There were eight men, whom I knew very well, standing in a row with several priests. Next came two good friends of mine named Balban and Guillaume, with Balban's seventeen-year-old son; then two men who had taken refuge in a barn and had been discovered and blinded; then two other men whom I had never seen before."

"It was awful to see the way the women were crying—'Shoot me too, shoot me with my husband.'"

"The men were lined up on the edge of the hollow, which runs from the high road to the bottom of the village. One of them was leaning on the shoulders of an old priest, and he was crying, 'I am too young—I can't face death bravely.'"

"I couldn't bear the sight any longer. I turned my back to the road and covered my eyes. I heard the volley and the bodies falling. Then some one cried, 'Look, they're all down.' But a few escaped."

This Belgian had escaped by hiding—he could not remember how many days—in an old cart filled with manure and rubbish. He had chewed old hides for food, had swam across the river, and hid in a mud bank for almost a week longer, and finally got to France.

He took it very hard when we talked about Dimde, and I told him that the old church was just shot to pieces. He asked about a painting called the "Adoration of the Kings" and one of the other prisoners told us it had been saved and transported to Germany. If that is true, and they do not destroy it meanwhile, we will get it back, don't worry!

My wound was just a clean gunshot wound and not very serious, so, although it was not completely healed, they let me go after three weeks. But before I went, I saw something that no man of us will ever forget. Some of them took vows just like the men of the legion I have told about.

OUR FLAG - The Emblem of Independence

The Flag Which Brought Civilization to Many People

How It Has Brought Civilization and Liberty To Many People.

Copyright, 1918, by The International Syndicate.

THE FLAG of a nation is the symbol of the patriotism and loyalty of its citizens. From time immemorial every people, every clan, every society or band has had an emblem representing the idea or principle which bound them together in one common cause. Its symbolic significance increased with the growth of the organization and if that organization was the national government formed by a people with the same traditions and ambitions and bending every effort to work out through that government the highest ideals of humanity and civilization, the flag that stood for it all was revered and honored as embodying the soul and purpose of the nation.

In all great movements in the world's history, some distinctive token has been selected to mark and distinguish the cause and this is especially true in the case of the birth of a nation. It seems to be instinctive in human nature to adopt some badge signifying a joint or common interest in some movement.

Origin Of The Flag

It was not long after the Fourth of July, 1776, that the United States of America adopted the design of a flag that would be truly representative of our country. The origin of the new flag, the Stars and Stripes with thirteen stripes and thirteen stars is explained in the rough journal of the Continental Congress and in the record for June 14, 1777, we find the following:

"Resolved, that the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes alternating red and white, that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field representing a new constellation."

The official records do not show much sentiment in the creation of the flag and merely makes its layout a suitable one for the States.

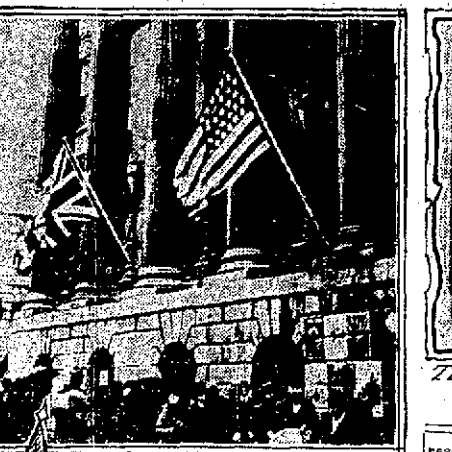

There is a tradition that the stars were adopted from Washington's coat of arms at the suggestion of Benjamin Franklin, but be this true or not, the five pointed star with one point upward is an ancient symbol of authority and dominion of India, Persia and Egypt. It is a sacred symbol in Christian churches symbolizing dominion. Tradition has it that Betsy Ross, of Philadelphia, the widow of an upholsterer and herself an expert needlewoman, made the first flag. Since that time it has spread its protecting folds over the down trodden of every land and which today, true to the cause which gave it birth, is lending its strength and prestige in upholding the cause of humanity. The result must be a Fourth of July for all nations announcing emancipation from the thraldom of Prussian militarism and Prussian domination. Today our emblem and what it stands for and what it inspires seems to be the hope

Star Never Sets On Our Flag

Our flag is one of the oldest natural flags in the world and since its birth one-half of the nations have become republics and every government has given increased representation and liberty to its people. The sun never sets on the Stars and Stripes for it flies from our embassies and consulates in every part of the world.

It stands for justice and liberty to all and wherever it has been carried it has brought civilization in its wake. From the days of John Paul Jones, of whom it is said "he hath made the flag of America respected among the flags of other nations," until the present day when it hangs side by side with the Union Jack and the tricolor of France it stands for victory and liberty to the down trodden.

When we had our little disagreement with England during the early

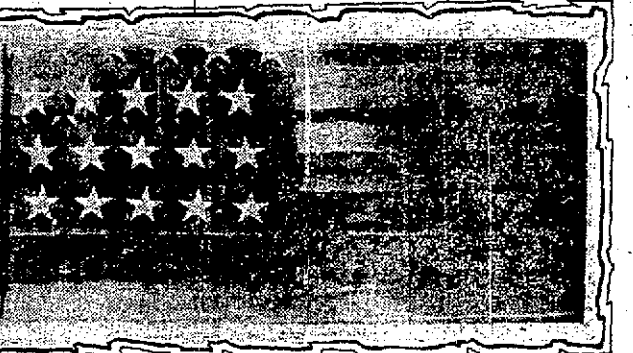

The Stars and Stripes Fly Side by Side with the British Flag at the Marston House in London

Welcoming the Flag in London

The Flag in France

The Flag of the Maine Which Brought Freedom to Cuba

rescued Cuba from Spanish tyranny. The Maine went down with the American flag—the symbol of liberty had been taken down for the night and for fourteen years it lay neatly folded in a chest beneath the waters of the Havana harbor. When the Maine was raised in 1911 and the flag brought to the surface its stripes were as red and its stars as white as when it was lowered at sunset on that fatal February night of 1898. Cuba was free and independent and loyal to the United States, as is shown by her recent break with Mexico on account of pro-German propaganda. So again the benign influences of what our flag means are shown in the position which the little Island Republic has taken against Kaiserism.

Its Place In The Present War

Time and again our flag has helped the down trodden of other nations and today the emblem of our country is in the thick of the fight against autocracy. When our country entered the war both England and France began to do honor to our flag.

At St. Paul's Cathedral, London, the first American troops that came to England were invited to bring their flag to service, where it was blessed in the great English shrine, and is to be preserved for all time together with those of our Allies whose National emblems, like those of our own, are waving over the hosts fighting for world liberty. The King and Queen attended and the Cathedral was packed. England received our coming into the war with great joy. The Lord Mayor ordered that British and American flags be displayed side by side on the front of the Mansion House where they still wave. The Lord Mayor declared that for a century past the American flag had stood for freedom and that American flags be displayed throughout the city. Our troops were welcomed everywhere. When the men were on the march they were usually followed by huge automobile trucks filled with girls bearing the words "Welcome to our Allies." Numbers of American soldiers were received by the King and Queen. Everywhere in England the men bearing the Stars and Stripes were given a cordial welcome and our wounded who were sent there were given the best of treatment.

In France the people went wild with joy as soon as our boys landed, for while England feels the need of our help, the French people look at the American flag as though it had come to save them. Ever since General Pershing visited Lafayette's grave and striking a tiny American flag on the mound said "Lafayette we are here," the American soldier and his flag have been looked upon as the miracle which has come to save France from the ruthless hand of the Hun. Women and children followed the American soldiers about begging them to save them from the Germans. The American flag was recognized and saluted on the battlefield in France before we entered the war. This was when the American Ambulance Corps, a team of Leland Stanford men, had the honor of bearing the first American flag to the front.

Men selling the Stars and Stripes have done a thriving business in Paris and even villages where the people wear them with the tricolor of France. Decoration Day over there was carried out in genuine American style and the graves of our boys, who have given up their lives, were covered with flowers. The French Government has asked that their bodies be allowed to rest on French soil and have decided to mark each American boy's grave with a permanent stone.

Our Allies have suffered much from the military madman of Europe and as our flag has never been lowered in defeat and although at times the days may seem dark, the boys who carry the American flag will never go down to surrender to a nation whose greatest weapon is treachery, the destruction of cathedrals and the maiming and murdering of little children.

"Then conquer we must,
When our cause is just,
And this be our motto:
In God is our trust."
"And the Star-Spangled Banner
In triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free
And the home of the brave."

THE WOMEN of Colonial days gave their all for American independence; the women of 1918 are giving their all to preserve that independence and to give freedom to the world. To the groups of American women organized for specifically patriotic purpose July Fourth means more today than it has done since the time when our forefathers fought to establish freedom; of thought, of speech and of action in the Western Hemisphere.

Every American woman's society created to perpetuate the deeds of Colonial ancestors has turned its personal interests in things of the past to intensive endeavor in connection with the things of the present. Supplies to the value of many millions of dollars and personal service and sacrifice of uncounted worth in the present crisis have been given by these organizations to help the great cause of today.

Daughters Of The American Revolution

But one motive seems to activate this society of 102,000 active Daughters in the present crisis and this is to set hands, hearts and wealth to the nation's cause. In cold figures the sum of $10,400,000 has been expended for war relief within the year of the war's operation. In bestowal of whole-hearted service no organization can show greater evidence of generosity and self-sacrifice.

Many of the Daughters are doing war work in foreign fields. The majority have gone in the capacity of army nurses, and represent thirty States. They have gone to every war-stricken country, but France has been mainly enriched by their labor. Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey is the National President of the D. A. R. Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, a past national president general of the order, is chairman of the D. A. R. War Relief Service Committee. Associated with Mrs. Scott are Mrs. Albert Sidney Burleson, wife of the Postmaster General, who is vice-president; Mrs. William H. Walt of Ann Arbor, Michigan, who is in charge of publicity; and Mrs. Howard L. Hopkins, Secretary.

In referring to the great service accomplished by the order, Mrs. Scott spoke with enthusiasm of the splendid generosity of the women who had given so freely for the country's cause. "They have determined to give all in this great crisis of the nation," she said.

Mrs. Burleson is one of the busiest women in Washington, connected as she is with many organizations which have made war work their chief present aim. In her official capacity as vice-chairman of the War Relief Service Committee of the D. A. R., Mrs. Burleson was the author of a resolution, taken up and presented by the Board, asking that every member contribute $1 to create a fund of $100,000 which would be invested in Liberty Bonds. At the recent congress it was again Mrs. Burleson who presented the resolution, passed by the congress, that the interest on those bonds be reinvested in Liberty Bonds during the period of the war.

As chairman in charge of publicity and information Mrs. Walt has gathered together facts and figures that make the chronicle of the war work of the D. A. R. a story of woman's ability, generosity, self-sacrifice and accomplishment of which every American woman may be proud. Mrs. Walt's figures cover relief in form of supplies for the United States forces at home and abroad; purchase of Liberty Bonds in the name of the society; the adoption of approximately four hundred French orphans; raising of funds for the rebuilding of Tilloy, in Belgium, Serbia and Armenia. The financial statement giving the itemized expenditures in every one of these cases does not cover the cost of twenty ambulances; 10,400 garments sent to France; 198,207 hospital garments; 1,801,268 surgical supplies; 461 binoculars, books by tens of thousands and many hundreds of supplies in other form.

The undertaking of the Daughters to rebuild the village of Tilloy in the Somme district of France is one of the most picturesque stories of relief work of the war. The little town is slowly resuming life as the temporary American structures provide them with shelter. Bricks supplied for the rebuilding of their homes and the filling of the devastated land are lending their due of comfort and courage to the people.

National Society Of Colonial Dames Of America

The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America was organized twenty-seven years ago to preserve the earliest historic landmarks of this country, but war and woman's part in war work have diverted the present activities of this organization of approximately eight thousand members into avenues of exclusively humanitarian intent. Its president is Mrs. Joseph Rucker Lamar.

The war work of the Colonial Dames has been largely cooperative. The Dames have allied themselves with the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense in the various States, and for special local service, with the Red Cross, the Young Women's Christian Association, the National League for Women's Service, the Special Aid Society, the Fund for French Wounded, the Fatherless Children of France, the Navy League, the Emergency Aid, the Belgian Relief and other organizations performing special war work. Nearly a hundred thousand articles have been donated for the equipment of hospitals, with about an equal number of knitted garments; 200,000 surgical dressings, and many thousands of uncounted articles of every necessary character.

The Colonial Dames are organized in forty corporate or State societies functioning individually in the main society of 1912, have also thrown themselves with intensive vigor and earnestness into the present issue, taking for their slogan, "Patriotic Service." The President of the order, Mrs. Robert Hall Willes, of Chicago, writes, in summarizing the war work of her organization:

"On February 2, the United States Government broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. On the next day the President of the National Society of Colonial Dames of 1912 telegraphed President Wilson pledging the allegiance of this society, and its active assistance in every possible way. The presidents of thirty-three State branches immediately formed Red Cross units and our members almost without exception individually joined the Red Cross."

"From that time to this, we have responded promptly and faithfully to every call made upon us," writes Mrs. Willes. "We have subscribed to the Liberty Loans and have taken active part in the drive for the same. We have in every possible way aided the Young Women's Christian Association in their efforts to provide for the comfort and wholesome recreation of the soldiers and sailors."

"Many of our members have taken the Red Cross training and are now teaching others. We have provided hospital supplies, surgical dressings, comfort kits, and knitted garments in very large numbers; also canned fruits and vegetables for the use of base hospitals, and books and magazines for the cantonments. We have undertaken the maintenance of many French orphans, and contributions have been sent to aid Belgians, Serbians, Armenians and Poles. We have engaged in many different schemes for raising money for the various war relief measures. Our moral support and service and our money have been given to the fullest extent possible to all measures connected with the successful prosecution of the war."

One of the most interesting of these groups of "Real" Daughters of 1812 is found in the District of Columbia Society. A unique memento of their service in the world war is a flag which they have made with their own hands and which they have presented to their society. This flag is a replica, reduced one-third in size, of the "Star-Spangled Banner," which flew from Fort Mifflin during the War of 1812 and inspired our National Anthem.

A Typical D.A.R. Scene

and recreation of invalids were also supplied. Another united and picturesque effort was the presentation of a large silk American flag to General Pershing, for the use of the "first American troops sent abroad to serve in the war of 1917." This flag was gratefully acknowledged by General Pershing.

Beyond this chronicled work, there has been an unrecorded amount of war service given in hostess houses, in lecturing, in furnishing headquarters for officers, in donations of houses for soldiers' clubs, with their maintenance and equipment, in Americanization work among foreigners, in food production and conservation and in many other forms of war activities.

United States Daughters Of 1812

No woman's organization will celebrate Independence Day with greater enthusiasm than will the National Society of the United Daughters of 1812, with its ten thousand members in every State in the Union. These women who are the descendants of men who served the Union in the War of 1812, have also thrown themselves with intensive vigor and earnestness into the present issue, taking for their slogan, "Patriotic Service." The President of the order, Mrs. Robert Hall Willes, of Chicago, writes, in summarizing the war work of her organization:

"On February 2, the United States Government broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. On the next day the President of the National Society of United Daughters of 1812 telegraphed President Wilson pledging the allegiance of this society, and its active assistance in every possible way. This flag is a replica, reduced one-third in size, of the "Star-Spangled Banner," which flew from Fort Mifflin during the War of 1812 and inspired our National Anthem.

Another society whose members' hearts and voices will re-echo the prayer for continued independence for this country and freedom for the rest of the world on July Fourth is the National Society of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America. This is a small organization, as far as figures go, there being but one thousand members to compose its eighteen chapters in as many sections of the United States, but its spirit and work in the present crisis are worthy of high praise. Mrs. Thomas K. Noble, of Washington, is the National President of this society, and she reports energetic work in every branch of war relief service.

"As I look back over the year's work of the National Society of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, the thought that stands out most prominently is the intense patriotism of our Daughters," said Mrs. Noble. "Their efforts have been untiring, and they have crowded them all by making the supreme sacrifice, the giving of their sons, their very heart's blood. They have made this last gift willingly, but with what heart-rending knowledge, going to mothers and to God! These gifts of service, of treasure, of and sons have bound us all together as a new tie, a golden cord of service for our beloved country, Independence Day, 1918, will see our order stronger and with a renewed purpose to become more and more worthy of our noble heritage as the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, who gave their lives to make America the home of the brave and the land of the free."

The most delicate skin will quickly respond to the soothing and tonic effects of Hokara when this pure skin cream is used.

As a massage cream or after shaving it is unequalled, removing all irritations, and making the skin soft and velvety.

Apply a little to the hands or face after washing and surprise yourself with the dead skin that comes off.

Hokara is the only anti-septic massage cream, and all skin blemishes soon disappear when it is used.

Although far superior to the ordinary massage creams and sold on a guarantee of "best you ever used or money back," yet the price is a trifle, only 50c for a liberal jar; larger size 90c.—A. A. Clarke—Adv.
